THE PRESIDENT'S REMARKS

On October 1st, 2005 a Convocation was held in St. Basil's Church with the Chancellor, His Eminence Cardinal Aloysius Ambrozic, presiding. Licentiates degrees were conferred on fifteen candidates, along with the degree M.S.D. honoris causa. Those honoured by the latter were Professor Hanna Holborn Gray, President Emerita of the University of Chicago, H. Clifford Hatch Esq., businessman and philanthropist, Professor George A. Rigg, Professor Emeritus of the Centre for Medieval Studies in the University of Toronto, and Msgr. John Francis Wippel, Theodore Basselin Professor of Philosophy at The Catholic University of America. Professor Rigg was represented in absentia by Professor Andy Orchard, Director of the Centre for Medieval Studies. Dr. Gray addressed Convocation on the continuing role and obligations of humanistic education.

On the same occasion, the Institute was pleased to appoint a new Honorary Fellow, Donald Francis Logan, M.S.L., M.S.D. Dr. Logan, a distinguished historian, is Professor Emeritus at Emmanuel College, Boston and a former Gilson Lecturer at the Institute. The Institute community is particularly happy to welcome him back in the ranks with this rare and eminent status.

During the academic year covered in this Report, from 1 July 2005 to 30 June 2006, the Institute entered a wholly new phase of its history with the happy resolution of our two leading initiatives in recent years. On 15 December 2005, the Bill Pr21, `An Act to incorporate The Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies' received Royal Assent in the Ontario Legislature. With that enactment the Institute became a civil corporation in its own right. The provisions of the Act, and of the associated legislation to modify the Collegium – the governing body of the University of St Michael’s College – insure that the Institute will gain its own governance, while remaining closely associated with the University of Toronto through St Michael’s. Its Pontifical status is unaltered. The background to this substantial alteration in our governance was explained in earlier reports.

As we go to press, the Institute’s quest for new governance is now complete with the appointment of the four elected members of our Board of Governors. They are: Mrs. Nicole Eaton (Chair), The Hon. Henry N.R. Jackman, O.C., O. Ont., Mr. Robert W. Chisholm, F.C.A. and Dr. Hans Guenther Abromeit. These Directors will join the ex-officio members, who are as follows: Most Rev. John Boisoneau, D.D. (appointed by the Institute’s Eminent Chancellor, Cardinal Ambrozic), Very Rev. Kenneth Decker, C.S.B. (Superior General, Congregation of St Basil), Rev. James McConica, C.S.B., O.C., (Praeses, PIMS), Mr W. Frank Morneau (Chair of the Collegium of the University of St. Michael’s College), Dr Richard Alway, O.C., O. Ont. (President, University of St Michael’s College), Prof. R.B. Thomson, D.Phil. (Treasurer, PIMS), and Mr. William H. Broadhurst (Treasurer, The Mediaeval Studies Foundation).

The former Institute Council, consisting chiefly of the Fellows of the Institute, including the Associate Fellows, will henceforth constitute the Academic Council, with responsibility for the scholarly and teaching activities of the Institute only.

The second major initiative, well known to our readers, is the campaign to endow the Leonard Boyle Chair in Manuscript Studies, launched in the year 2000 and supported by a matching grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, with the goal of (CDN) $2,500,000. The remainder of that grant was claimed, on schedule, during the period covered by this Report, with a very substantial “overrun” in the endowment, due in part to unusually favourable investment opportunities. We at the Institute are naturally most gratified by the generous response to our appeal, and anticipate announcement of the first holder of the Chair in early 2007, following appropriate search and advertisement of the position.

FUND RAISING

Since the year 2000 the endowment of the Leonard Boyle Chair in Manuscript Studies has been the priority concern in fundraising, an initiative that would have been unthinkable without the generous support of the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation of New York. As is reported in the foregoing paragraph, that appeal is now concluded, with a very satisfactory outcome. The commitment by the Trustees of a sum to match all donations on a dollar-for-dollar basis was the indispensable condition that made our aim to establish such a Chair practicable, and the subsequent support from a wide variety of private individuals and other foundations was certainly postulated on their awareness of the Mellon support. It remains only to acknowledge here our deep gratitude to the Trustees for their confidence in the Institute’s aims and achievement.

ACADEMIC ASPECTS

In this year, the eighth in our post-doctoral programme, the Institute welcomed again four new Mellon Fellows, candidates for the Licence in Mediaeval Studies, as well as our distinguished Visiting Fellows, Research Associates, and Guests.

Santiago Argüello (Mellon Fellow; Licence Candidate) is a citizen of Argentina with a recent doctorate in philosophy from the University of Navarre. His project addressed the doctrine of divine attributes in the recently discovered manuscript of the Lectura romana in the context of Aquinas’s other writings. His papers have appeared in Sapiencia (Buenos Aires) and his book Posibilidad y principio de plenitud en Tomás de Aquino was recently published by Ediciones Universidad de Navarra SA (EUNSA). The critical edition of the Lectura was recently published by the Pontifical Institute.

Anne-Laurence Caudano (Research Associate) holds a doctorate from Trinity College, Cambridge; her dissertation was entitled: "Let There Be Lights in the Firmament of the Heaven: Cosmological Depictions in Early Rus (Tenth to Thirteenth Centuries)." Her project documents the diffusion of Aristotelian cosmological ideas in Byzantine monastic communities. More broadly, the study reflects upon the access to secular culture in the Empire, and the spread of knowledge from Constantinople to its neighbouring provinces and states. Her articles on Byzantine astronomy, Rus astronomy and calendars appeared in Byzantinoslavica, and Slavica Gandensia (2004). She was recently appointed Assistant Professor in the Department of History at the University of Winnipeg.

David J. Defries (Mellon Fellow; Licence Candidate) who completed his doctoral work in history at Ohio State University, proposed a project entitled, "The Murder of Godelieve of Ghistelles in Drogo of Saint-Winnoc’s Vita s. Godelevae" examining the literary strategies underlying hagiography and exploring the typology of martyrdom in the Middle Ages. He has also participated in the archaeological excavation of an eighth-through-twelfth-century Anglo-Saxon church at Bishopstone, East Sussex.

Lucy E.G. Donkin (Mellon Fellow; Licence Candidate) holds a PhD from the Courtauld Institute. Her dissertation was entitled, "Ornata decente: Figurative Ecclesiastical Floor Mosaics in Northern Italy, 1030–1213." The broader question entailed by medieval ecclesiastical pavement imagery and liturgical practice was the focus of her project at the Institute this past year. Initial observations on the subject were presented at the Colloquio dell'Associazione Italiana per lo Studio e la Conservazione dei Mosaici in 2004 and published in the Atti of the conference in 2005.

Pascale Duhamel (Licence Candidate) received her doctorate in musicology from the Université de Montréal for a dissertation on "Musique et architecture au temps de l’art gothique (1140–1240)" and has conducted post-doctoral research at the Institut de Recherche et d’Histoire des Textes in Paris from 2003 to 2005. Essays and papers by her have appeared in Memini, Travaux et documents (Quebec) and in Early Music: Context and Ideas (Krakow, 2003). Her project for the year was devoted to the Quaestiones disputatae of music at the medieval university of Paris during the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries.

Maria Evangelatou (Licence Candidate) received her PhD from the Courtauld Institute of Art in 2003 for her thesis "The Illustration of the Ninth-Century Byzantine Marginal Psalters: Layers of Meaning and Their Sources." The interplay of word and image in these psalters, contextualized in the aftermath of Iconoclasm, was also the subject of her work at the Institute this year. She has been a Post-Doctoral Fellow at Dumbarton Oaks (2003–2005) and at the Program in Hellenic Studies of Princeton University (2004–2005). She is the author of "The Purple Thread of the Flesh: The Theological Connotations of a Narrative Iconographic Element in Byzantine Images of the Annunciation," in Icon and Word, ed. Antony Eastmond and Liz James (Aldershot, 2003), "The Holy Sepulchre and Iconophile Arguments on Relics in the Nineteenth-Century Byzantine Psalters," in Eastern Christian Relics, ed. A. Lidov (Moscow, 2003), and of other articles on the relationship of word and image in Byzantine art.

Giles E.M. Gasper (Guest) a graduate of the University of Oxford and currently Lecturer in Medieval History at the University of Durham, UK., and the author of Anselm of Canterbury and His Theological Inheritance (Aldershot, 2004), has also published a number of articles on Anselm’s thought, including aspects of his interest in medicine and issues of historiographical interpretation. His current projects involve a study of the way in which light was conceived, described, and treated in the period 1070–1250, as well as a book on the Crusades.

Louis I. Hamilton (Mellon Fellow; Licence Candidate) from the University of Virginia and Fordham University, and recently postdoctoral associate in medieval history at Rutgers, focused on the Libri sententiarum of Bruno of Segni and the reform of the episcopacy in the eleventh century. He has published essays in The Journal of Early Christian Studies, Speculum, and Essays in History, and is co-editor (with Christopher M. Bellitto) of Church Reform Before Modernity: Patterns, Problems, and Approaches, published in 2005 from Ashgate. He was recently appointed Assistant Professor of Medieval Christianity in the Department of Religious Studies at Drew University, Madison, New Jersey.

Christopher Neville Jones (Licence Candidate) completed his doctoral work in history at Grey College, University of Durham. His thesis was entitled, "The Eclipse of Empire? Perceptions of the Western Empire and Its Rulers in Thirteenth- and Early Fourteenth-Century France." His articles on Philippe III le Hardi, Charles d’Anjou, and the 1273/74 imperial candidature and on Pierre Dubois have been published in Viator and Comitatus. An essay on Guillaume de Nangis is scheduled to appear in Representations of Power in Medieval Germany, ed. B.K. Weiler. He devoted the year to examining perceptions of political structures and concepts in late medieval France, focusing on the pamphlets and tracts generated by the series of disputes between Philippe IV and the papacy. In February 2006, he was appointed Lecturer in History, University of Canterbury, Christchurch, New Zealand.

Stefano Riccioni (Licence Candidate) who trained as an art historian, receiving his doctorate from the University of Rome, 'La Sapienza’ in 2004, has also been engaged in palaeographical projects on behalf of SISMEL in Florence, for whom he edited a repertory of medieval Latin liturgical and theological texts. Essays by him have appeared in Hortus Artium Medievalium and Iconographica, and in the acta of various conferences, and his study Il mosaico absidale di S. Clemente a Roma: "Exemplum" della Chiesa riformata is currently in press. At the Institute this past year, he was working on a project entitled "Seeing and Reading the Mosaic of S. Maria in Trastevere in Rome." He has been awarded a post-doctoral fellowship by the Getty Institute for 2006–2007.

Harriet Sonne de Torrens (Licence Candidate) received her PhD from the Institute of Art History at the University of Copenhagen. The subject of her dissertation was De fontibus salvatoris: A Liturgical and Ecclesiological Reading of the Representation of the Childhood of Christ in Scandinavia.” An essay based on this work was published in Objects, Images and the Word: Art in the Service of the Liturgy, ed. Colum Hourihane (Princeton, 2003). Articles on the iconography of Mary and Joseph in medieval Scandinavia and Spain and on the three-headed Trinity and divine wisdom in the cloister at Alquézar have also recently appeared. She is director and co-founder (with M.A. Torrens) of the online database, Baptisteria Sacra: An Iconographic Index of Baptismal Fonts (BSI).

As we now enter the ninth consecutive year of the post-doctoral programme in 2006-2007, we look forward to welcoming further outstanding candidates from the international community of medievalists. There are nine new post-doctoral Research Associates for 2006-2007 including the following Mellon Fellows who were elected in March:

Alexander Andréé (Licence Candidate) comes to us from Sundbyberg, Sweden. His doctoral thesis defended at Stockholm University was a critical edition with an introduction and translation of the Glossa ordinaria in Lamentations Jeremie prophete, Prothema et Liber I, of Gilbertus Universalis. Dr Andréé earlier studied codicology and paleography in Rome under the late Father Leonard Boyle, OP. At the Institute he will continue editing the books of the biblical Glossa ordinaria with the Gloss on the Gospel of St John, probably the work at least in part of Anselm of Laon.

Holly Greco (Licence Candidate) a Lecturer at Bryn Mawr College, completed her doctoral work at Princeton University in history on Franciscan inquisitions and inquisitors in southern France in the wake of the Fourth Lateran Council. In Toronto, she will be concentrating on the formation of the Franciscan cult of St Louis of Anjou as a model of orthodox spirituality. By utilizing archival resources from Marseilles, where a yearly fair was established in the saint’s honour, she will investigate also the integration of Louis’ cult into the fabric of urban life.

Alessandro Palazzo (Licence Candidate) who undertook his studies at the University of Lecce, received his doctorate with a dissertation on Ulrich von Strassburg. His edition of Ulrich’s De summo bono, liber 4, tractatus 3, appeared in the series Corpus Philosoporum Teutonicorum Medii Aevi in 2005. A conference paper on the Hermetic sources of Ulrich of Strasbourg was published in Hermetism from Late Antiquity to Humanism / La tradizione ermetica dal mondo tardo antico all’umanesimo (Turnhout, 2003). He has held fellowships at the University of Notre Dame, Indiana, at the Herzog August Bibliothek in Wolfenbüttel, and at the Catholic University of Eichstett. At the Institute he will be examining the teaching of fatum and providence in the works of Albertus Magnus, Ulrich of Strasbourg, Dietrich of Freiberg and Berthold of Moosbrug.

Jochen Schenk (Licence Candidate) from Erlangen, Germany, and with a PhD from Cambridge and an MPhil in medieval history from Trinity College Dublin, will be investigating the spirituality of the military orders of the Temple and the Hospital in medieval France. Although much has been made lately of the Templars and the Knights Hospitallers of St. John the Baptist, careful scholarly study and discussion of these influential associations precisely as religious orders has not been prominent in recent publication. It should also be noted that a gratifying number of Research Fellows recently in the programme have received encouraging recognition. Andreas Andreopoulous has been appointed to the University of Lampeter, Wales; Anne-Laurence Caudano to the University of Winnipeg; Christopher Jones to the University of Christchurch, New Zealand; Gyorgyi Hegedus to St. Francis Xavier University; Vasilis Marinis to Queen’s College, New York City; Louis Hamilton to Drew University in Madison, New Jersey, and Daniel Hobbins to Ohio State. Svitala Kobets will be teaching a summer course on Christian asceticism at the National University of Kyiv-Mohyla Academy in Ukraine. Kostis Kourelis has received a Faculty Fellowship in the Program of Hellenic Studies at Princeton University; Kate Rudy has resigned her position at Portland State University in order to take up the post of Keeper of Illuminated Manuscripts at The Hague. Lucy Donkin has received a two year Leverhume Fellowship to be held at the British Academy in Rome, and Maria Evangelatou has received a Radcliffe Fellowship at Harvard University for next year. Finally, Stefano Riccioni, whose book on the mosaics of San Clemente will appear shortly, was awarded a Getty Foundation Traveling Fellowship for next year, which will allow him to continue his work on Santa Maria in Trastevere while profiting from access to a variety of research resources both in Europe and in North America.

Lectures

On Thursday, 16 February 2006 a special presentation by Myra Rosenfeld examined the topic, “The Abbot outside of the Cloister: An Enquiry into the later history of the Order of Cluny in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Centuries.” The Etienne Gilson Lecture was delivered on 3 March 2006 by Professor Paul Edward Dutton, M.S.D., F.R.S.C., Jack and Nancy Farley University Professor in History at Simon Fraser University. His topic was, “How to Make Heresy Go Away: the Missing Trial of William of Conches.” It has been recently published by the Institute as no. 28 of the Etienne Gilson Series.

The Leonard Boyle Memorial Lecture, sponsored by the Friends of the Library of the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies, was given by Dr. Maryanne Kowaleski, M.S.L., Director of the Center for Medieval Studies at Fordham University, on 21 April 2006. Her title was, “Gossip, Gender, and the Economy: The Origin of Scolding indictments in Medieval England.”
On 20 April 2006 Dr. Kowaleski also presented a graduate seminar on “Women and Family in Medieval English Towns: the Demographic and Paleodemographic Perspective.”

HONOURS

James McConica, Praeses received a Lifetime Achievement Award from the Canadian Society for Renaissance Studies at their annual meeting on May 28, 2006.

Virginia Brown, Senior Fellow was honoured on the occasion of her 65th birthday by a Symposium at the Ohio State University on “Classica et Beneventana,” October 28 – 29, 2005. The colleagues and former students participating included Dom Faustino Avagliano, O.S.B., Abbot of Montecassino and M.S.D. honoris causa of the Pontifical Institute.

Jocelyn Hillgarth, Fellow Emeritus, on July 14, 2005 received the Encomienda de Isabel la Católica conferred upon him by the King of Spain.

Virginia Brown was awarded a Killam Research Fellowship (renewal, 2006-2007), and an Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Grant (to support work on vols. 10-19 of the Catalogus translationum et commentariorum).

Msgr. John F. Wippel, who was honoured also at the Institute’s Convocation as recorded above, received the 2005 Alumnus Lifetime Service Award of the Theological College at The Catholic University of America on October 5, 2005. On the previous 4th of May, his University had already recognized him with the Provost’s Award for Lifetime Excellence in Scholarship, Research and Teaching.

IN MEMORIAM

In the period under review, the Council received with deep regret, news of the death of a former Institute Professor and Senior Fellow Emeritus, Father Joseph Owens, C.Ss.R. Fr. Owens died after a long illness on 30 October 2005. His extensive investigations of the traditions of metaphysics and in particular, of the philosophy of St. Thomas Aquinas will maintain his presence in the scholarly world as one of the leading Thomistic scholars of our time.

We regret also the death of one of the Institute’s friends and supporters, Gaspar “Frank” Suma, on 17 September 2005. He is much missed.

The final numbers of documented monastic sites in Ireland dwindles each year. As I stated two years ago, the numbers were down to three. Since then I have found a hundred or so other obscure sites. These are dated from the time of St. Patrick so, needless to say, there are sparse remains if any. Most times they are identified by a cemetery, with or without a derelict Church of Ireland church. Slowly they are being catalogued and photographed. As I stated before, some of the sites with more remains are located on quite inaccessible islands. The most important site is on Inishmurray off the coast of Sligo, where there are the best remains of an early monastic site in Europe. It is very difficult to get to as there is no jetty and can only be accessed when the sea is not rough. So far I have tried on six separate days to get there with no success. The problem is that there are many of these sites which have no known location and others that are difficult, or even impossible, to find on ordnance survey maps.

Current research concerns the implementation of the decree Cum ex eo of Pope Boniface VIII. By this decree the pope allowed diocesan bishops to dispense rectors of churches from residence so that they could study at a university and, to support themselves, to take the income of the parish, from which they had also to hire a vicar to care for the parish. To examine how this decree was implemented, I have selected the diocese of Lincoln, the largest in size and population in medieval England, and am focusing on the first fifty years of the fourteenth century. During that time the bishops of Lincoln kept a separate part of their registers to record these dispensations. For the first twenty years almost five hundred such dispensations were granted. My research has two phases: (i) to extract the data from the registers and (ii) to analyze it and, if possible, to draw some conclusions about the influence of the papal decree in providing an educated parochial clergy.

THE INSTITUTE LIBRARY
From July 2005 through June 2006 we added 1,175 new book titles, 200 bound volumes of journals, and 102 manuscripts on microfilm. Our holdings now comprise approximately 120,000 printed volumes, 9,500 manuscript works on about 8,300 film reels gathered from over 500 different libraries and archives. We have 8,500 uncatalogued books on microfiche, and nearly 800 CD-ROMs and DVDs, including 720 that contain the Papal Registers (from Innocent III [1198] to Pius II [1464]) conserved in the Vatican Archives. We are the sole Toronto licensees for several on-line resources, notably the CITEDOC (Corpus Christianorum), Per Littera Apostolica (on calendars of papal letters), and the In principio database of Latin manuscript incipits. The new microfilm acquisitions are the gift of Denise Bouthillier, Wallace K. Seaton, and Timothy D. Barnes. Dr. Bouthillier’s 54 reels contain the extant manuscripts of Peter the Venerable’s De miraculis.

Our Inter-Library loan service filled 26 requests. It had to decline 109 other requests for books available elsewhere in Canada and for reference / palaeography materials which we do not lend.

I am pleased to report the largest donation of books ever made at one time to the Institute: a library of about 4,000 books, the collection of Arlette and Frank Thomas on the theme “Medieval Gardens.” A more descriptive title, perhaps, would be “Nature in Medieval Culture,” since the collection comprises a wide spectrum of books dealing with the way flora and fauna were described, depicted, and used in art, science, literature, and everyday life in the Middle Ages. There are books on every aspect of nature and its products, from herbs and medicine to climate and cosmography, from linen, silk, and dyes to textiles and tapestries, from travel and industry to bestiaries, from treatises on farming by classical and monastic authors to monographs on craftsmen and commerce – and that is only a small portion of the range of topics in the collection. We are grateful beneficiaries of the science, art, and industry employed by Arlette and Frank Thomas in putting this collection together.

Another large gift – this one of about 800 books – was received from Dr. Richard Pope, who is retiring from the Department of Slavic Languages at York University. Dr. Pope’s collection comprises texts and monographs in Russian, Bulgarian, Old Church Slavonic, and other languages, primarily in the field of medieval church history and literature. Dr. Pope acquired most of these books while living in Russia and travelling in a number of eastern European cities. This is a field which is directly relevant to the areas of study of two of the Institute’s Fellows and to the studies of an increasing number of students coming from Eastern Europe. Our collection is significantly expanded and enriched by this donation.

The Janet Hutchison Foundation has continued a major grant enabling us to purchase more widely in the area of English literature, art, and history. Father Edward Jackman provided funds for acquisitions in hagiography. The Walter Principe Book Fund, which has purchased theology books in his memory for the past several years, has now been depleted. Additional funding for purchases came from James Carson and Erika Rummel.

We received gifts of books from the Journal of Medieval Latin (Bernice Kaczynski), the Central European University, and the Centre for Reformation and Renaissance Studies (Kim Yates). In addition to Arlette and Frank Thomas and Richard Pope, individuals who made gifts of books (July 2004–June 2005) were Suzanne Akbari, Cate Bannon, Virginia Brown, James Carley, Marc Cels, William Daly, Rev. Martin Dinnik, Greti Dinkova-Bruun, Lucy Donkin, Gerald Dunleavy, William Edwards, James

I wish to thank Caroline Suma and William Edwards, who continue to provide their professional services to library patrons and to me. I am grateful to Jonathan Bengtson, chief librarian of the John M. Kelly Library, University of St. Michael's College, and to his staff, whose expertise in cataloguing and providing other services make it possible for us to serve those who rely on our resources.

James K. Farge, C.S.B., Librarian

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLICATIONS

The Department of Publications is staffed by Ron B. Thomson, director, Jean Hoff and Fred Unwalla, editors, Jonathan Black, editor of Mediaeval Studies, and Angela MacAloney, administrative assistant. We have about 300 titles in print along with 66 issues (and 3 index volumes) of Mediaeval Studies.

During 2005-2006 we published 4 new titles. As well, we began a reprint program to make available all our books which were no longer in print. About a dozen titles were actually reprinted as customers ordered them.

The new titles are:

Volume 67 (2005) of Mediaeval Studies contained 5 texts and 2 articles. Contributors were scholars from Canada (the University of Toronto), the United States, and Japan. Two items were by former post-doctoral/Licence students of the Institute.

Net income from sales was $193,364 (for the 2005-2006 financial year), down 16% from the previous year. Copies sold by series are as follows:

In the past year the Publication Fund received grants and subsidies totalling $62,000 from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada, and the Canadian Federation for the Humanities and Social Sciences. The Mediaeval Studies Foundation, a private donor, and the University of Saint Michael’s College also subsidized the department for general overhead, as well as for space and administrative services.

THE INSTITUTE WEBSITE

A website, even the most seemingly complete and up-to-date, is but a work in progress. This is particularly true of the Institute’s own site. Over the summer of 2005, the webmaster devised an ambitious new design for the homepage, as well as modest changes for other pages. The seven sections of the site were rationalized and expanded; the entire electronic collection of files was reorganized; and an index was added for easier access to the ever increasing range of information now available on the site. Translating this grand plan into (virtual) reality, with economy of time and expense, would have been impossible without the unfailing help offered by the Resource Centre for Academic Technology in the University of Toronto. Tina Goertz, the faculty liaison officer at RCAT was always patient with a fastidious client, by turns encouraging without proving too agreeable, unwavering in her convictions without turning inflexible, and above all, meeting the frustrations and disappointments that ambition inevitably entails with good-humored grace. Her technical expertise was unrivalled, especially in the recoding required by the new format, and the fluid and cogent structure she devised has given the website a surer electronic foundation. Indeed, her extraordinary labours on behalf of the Institute site have allowed the webmaster to avoid, once again, facing the intricacies of DreamWeaver, the ill-named and depressingly ubiquitous web-creation software that has now become standard. I also wish to thank the CHASS Computing Facility in the University of Toronto, in particular Dan Derkach, for assistance during renovations of the site, and to my fellow members on the Institute's Web Committee, Jonathan Black, Jean Hoff, Ron B. Thomson, and Guy Trudel, for their forbearance of my many impositions on their time – and their computers.

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY
During the 2005-2006 academic year, I was on sabbatical and I am most grateful to Joanna Carraway, who has been a wonderful administrative assistant for a number of years, for stepping in as Acting Chair in my absence. Connell Monette, himself experienced as a former administrative assistant, once again assumed this role. Together Joanna and Connell guided the Friends through a productive and highly successful year.

Our special project this year was concerned with the cataloguing and conserving of the papers and archives of John Hine Mundy, Professor of History at Columbia University, which have been generously donated to our library by his widow. A prolific scholar, Mundy wrote on a wide range of subjects. He was particularly celebrated for his pioneering work on the Cathars in southern France, and among his well known books are The Medieval Town (Princeton 1958), Europe in the High Middle Ages 1150-1309 (London and New York 1973), and three studies with our own press. His papers, maps, microfilms, and books have contributed an invaluable resource to our Library.

The Friends, as has become our custom, sponsored two lectures. On 29 September, Michael Gervers of the University of Toronto's Department of History and the Centre for Medieval Studies spoke about his astonishing discoveries in the caves of Ethiopia in his illustrated lecture on "Ethiopian Liturgy and Church Architecture in the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Centuries." The lecture in memory of Leonard E. Boyle, OP was given on 21 April by a former student of Father Boyle, Maryanne Kowaleski, a professor of History at Fordham University. Professor Kowaleski's lecture, “Gossip, Gender, and the Economy,” examined the origins of the scolding indictments in local English courts in order to chart the criminalization of women's speech and gossip. The day before the lecture, Professor Kowaleski gave a seminar on “Women and the Family in Medieval English Towns: The Demographic and Paleodemographic Perspective” in which archaeological and statistical data were deployed in imaginative ways to illuminate familial relations in the Middle Ages. Both seminar and lecture were well attended and enthusiastically received.

The Christmas Tea, held in the Laurence K. Shook Common Room on the Friday after American Thanksgiving, this year 25th November, attracted many students, faculty, and Friends. As we have come to expect, Greti Dinkova-Bruun made sure we sold an enormous number of tickets for our much anticipated raffle. We are grateful to Joe Goering for donating a copy of his new book, The Virgin and the Grait, and to Sheila Campbell, George Rigg, University of Toronto Press, Father Dimnik, Sine Nomine, and others who gave us enticing prizes.

Our new restricted endowment has grown, this year reaching an amount of over $228,000. As a result we have been able to give about $11,000 to the Library for acquisitions. This is a goal the Friends have been working towards for years, and we feel especially pleased to show those who have been loyally helping us that at last we are making a substantial difference to Library acquisitions. Since good records are vital to our work, we have purchased a new Dell computer, which has made available the newest technology for fundraising and other projects, and which affords better security for our files.

The adopt-a-journal programme continues to attract new donors. We are grateful to our Friends for their generous financial support and for their gifts of books. Without our volunteers and the Committee of the Friends of the Library, we would not be able to accomplish much of what we now do. There are others who help behind the scenes, and I would like to thank all our supporters for their time, their gifts and donations, and for the many other ways in which they have been helping to maintain the Institute Library as a major resource for medieval research.

Ann M. Hutchison, Chair, Friends of the Library

SINE NOMINE ENSEMBLE FOR MEDIEVAL MUSIC
Sine Nomine's concert season reflected the course of the liturgical year, as is entirely fitting for a group which pursues music coterminous with the Institute's research mandate. Angelus ad virginem; Medieval Music for the Season of Advent, marked the beginning of the year (the title of the programme was taken from a well-known English Marian piece).

Lent saw (or rather heard) By wikked synful werknyge: Songs of Sin and Consequence, which featured among other genres the sharp estate satire from the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. Doubtless audiences enjoyed the opportunity for self-examination during music appropriate for a fallen world.

Et expecto resurrectionem: Medieval Music of Spring and New Life presented sacred repertoire for Easter and related pieces to a grateful post-Lenten audience.
Sine Nomine also performed in the series of other concert presenters in Southern Ontario, and took part in several “outreach” events - plainsong it seems is never unwelcome.

One member of the group has had a paper accepted by the Journal of the Society of Antiquaries of London, and could be found guest lecturing to the Center for Medieval Studies’ palaeography class, while another won the Governor General’s medal for highest standing in a theological programme “across Queen’s Park”, as it were.

Randall Rosenfeld, M.S.L.

BENEFACTIONS AND BEQUESTS
The Institute welcomes gifts and bequests in furtherance of its objectives. Donations can be directed to the Institute itself, to the Mediaeval Studies Foundation, or to specific funds and named gifts. All such donations (including books, works of art or other artifacts appropriate to the pursuit of medieval studies) will qualify for Income Tax relief in Canada and in the United States.

The Institute’s Library has benefited from its inception from gifts and bequests which have provided the foundation for some of its most important collections. Permanent endowment is sought also for academic positions and projects to which a donor’s name can be attached. Named Chairs are being sought to support research and teaching in the central disciplines of medieval thought and culture, particularly in Philosophy, Theology, Liturgy, Canon Law, Art and Archaeology. Named funds may also be established for student scholarships, research grants and visiting professorships. Donors may wish to underwrite an ongoing series of publications, individual publications, or the Institute journal, Mediaeval Studies. There are opportunities as well for named or memorial areas in the Institute, including its seminar rooms, areas within the Library, and the Library itself.

MEDIAEVAL STUDIES FOUNDATION
The Mediaeval Studies Foundation holds in trust the endowment funds of the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies. It exists only to support the work of the Institute and manages trusts and restricted funds directed to specific purposes, disbursing earnings for the operation of the Institute's scholarly programmes. To facilitate contributions from the United States of America, a complementary American Corporation has been established (see below).

SPECIAL FUNDS
Among the special funds invested to support specific objectives are the following:

THE LEONARD E. BOYLE CHAIR IN MANUSCRIPT STUDIES
The campaign to endow a Chair in Manuscript Studies to honour the late Father Leonard Boyle, O.P. of the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies was concluded on schedule in the period covered by this Report.

The campaign was initiated in the Spring of 2002, and was supported with a matching grant for all donations from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation of New York. As is noted above under “The President's Remarks”, the generous response to this appeal, coupled with a favourable investment climate, brought the campaign to a gratifying conclusion well within the time allotted.

THE FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY FUND
The long-term objective of the Friends of the Library Committee is to build up a fund whose earnings would support the purchase of manuscripts, books, periodicals, microfilms, CD-ROM materials, readers, and computer equipment.

THE CARR MEMORIAL FUND FOR PAPAL REGISTERS
The Carr Memorial Collection holds films of medieval papal registers. The Fund allows us to continue acquisition of films and/or CD-ROMS of the registers from A.D. 872 to 1464 including, eventually, the registers of the Avignon popes.

THE MICHAEL M. SHEEHAN MEMORIAL FUND
Created in memory of Father Michael M. Sheehan, the earnings of this fund are used to provide scholarship awards in medieval history or law.

THE EDWARD A. SYNNAN MEMORIAL FUND
The earnings from this fund, created by colleagues, former students, and friends of the late Msgr. Edward Synan, support studies or research in medieval philosophy.

AMERICAN PONTIFICAL INSTITUTE FOR MEDIAEVAL STUDIES CORPORATION
As noted above, “The American Pontifical Institute for Mediaeval Studies Corporation,” #1705 308 4016 038, has been established to facilitate contributions of persons and organizations in the United States. Gifts qualify for charitable exemptions as provided by the United States Internal Revenue Service.

Anyone considering a gift or bequest to support the Institute’s work is asked to contact James K. McConica, C.S.B., O.C., President, 59 Queen’s Park Crescent East, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, M5S 2C4. Telephone: (416) 926–7142.
