THE PRESIDENT'S REMARKS

The academic year from 1 July 2007 to 30 June 2008 was the final year of my second term as Praeses of the Institute, an office to which I first acceded in July 2006. I am happy to be able to report that at this time the Institute is in an excellent position to build for the future, with a new legal status and governmental structure, and a relationship with the University of Toronto that, while it preserves the Institute's autonomy, at the same time makes possible a fruitful and mutually advantageous collaboration.

At the core of this new structure is the Board of Governors, inaugurated in 2006 with the recruitment of the four elected members, Ms Nicole Eaton (Chair), Mr. Robert Chisholm, The Hon. Henry N. R. Jackman, and Dr. Hans Günther Abromeit. The Board has relieved the Academic Council of all financial responsibility for the operation of the institute, including the all-important function of fund-raising, whilst the Council, headed by the Academic Dean, enjoys a complete autonomy in setting policy and priorities in its own sphere. The Praeses remains the operational head of the Institute, linking the Council and the Board. The experience of the first two years of this arrangement allows us to look to the future with considerable optimism.

The year covered by this Report was dominated by two notably encouraging developments. The first of these followed on the successful endowment of the Leonard Boyle Chair in Manuscript Studies and the appointment of Professor Michèle Mulchahey as its first holder. In response to an obligation featured in the appointment, Prof. Mulchahey has submitted a proposal for an entirely new academic programme, a proposal that has won the enthusiastic approval both of the academic Council and of the Board of Governors. It has also gained the support of the American Academy in Rome, and of the Centre for Medieval Studies in the University of Toronto.

It is expected that this new programme, which will function independently of and in addition to the post-doctoral Licence Programme presently in place, will begin in the summer of 2010. Further details will be made available in the coming academic year.

Secondly, under the direction of Mr. Bill Harnum, who was appointed the Institute's Director of Publications in 2007, vigorous steps were taken to amplify production and facilitate marketing. At the same time, Professor James Carley, an Associate Fellow of the Institute at York University, worked energetically and with signal success to raise funds for manuscripts that could not qualify for the subsidies of the Aid to Scholarly Publications Programme in Ottawa. As 2008 marked 75 years of scholarly publishing at the Institute, it is especially gratifying to note the resulting initiatives. Three new series were launched: British Writers of the Middle Ages and Early Modern Period (eds James P. Carley, Anne Hudson, Richard Sharpe and James Willoughby), Catholic and Recusant Texts of the Late Medieval and Early Modern Periods (eds T. S. Freeman, Ann M. Hutchison and Alison Shell) and Medieval Law and Theology (eds Joseph Goering and Giulio Silano).

The Publications Department also entered into an agreement with the University of Durham to co-publish Durham Medieval and Renaissance texts and Durham Medieval and Renaissance Studies. New titles in these series will be developed editorially by Durham, and produced by PIMS. Durham will be responsible for raising subsidies for each book published, and PIMS and Durham will share the revenues.

In April 2008 the responsibility for distribution of the Department's publications was shifted to University of Toronto Press, which should result in much wider distribution of our titles, and more precise record keeping and analysis. It relieves the Institute of responsibility for storing our back stock, and for receiving, filling and mailing orders.

Finally, on the side of fund-raising, I am happy to announce a generous donation from Mr. Thor Eaton to initiate our drive to endow permanently the four Mellon Fellowships for post-doctoral students. As they have done before, the Trustees of the Mellon Foundation will match donor gifts, and allow naming privileges for such donors. Completion of this project will be a first priority of the Board in the next year.

ACADEMIC ASPECTS

To the Institute's post-doctoral programme, now in its tenth year, we again welcomed four new Mellon Fellows, namely:

William Campbell, a candidate for the LMS with a doctorate in medieval history from the University of St Andrews (2007). He continued work initiated by his doctoral research on the geography of pastoral care in 13th century England. Dr. Campbell is a research editor for Fasti Ecclesiae Anglicanae;

Marica Cassis, also a LMS candidate, is an Assistant Professor of History at SUNY Cortland, holding a doctorate from the University of Toronto (2007). Dr Cassis's special interest is in Byzantine liturgy as reflected especially in the art and archaeology of the Near and Middle East. The focus of her research at the Institute was the evolution of the altar in the Latin West;

Thomas McCarthy, again a LMS candidate, received a D.Phil. from Oxford (2004) with a dissertation on music theory in Germany from the mid-eleventh to the mid-twelfth centuries. Subsequently he was elected a Research Fellow in History and Humanities at Trinity College Dublin. At the Institute he explored relevant monastic studies in eleventh-century Germany;

Stefan Vander Elst came to the Institute from Princeton University, where he was awarded a doctorate in comparative literature in 2006. He too is a candidate for the LMS. At the Institute he works on the use of Crusade imagery in chivalric romances emerging during the Hundred Years War.

Also enrolled in the Licence programme were:

Maria Fomina, a candidate with a degree in Russian Philology from Moscow State University, where her dissertation examined the Zlatostrou, a well-known collection of the homilies of St John Chrysotom. As a specialist in the study of medieval Russian miscellanies, she focused here on the Uspensky Sbornik, a miscellany associated with the Cathedral of the Dormition in the Kremlin;

Laura Grimes, holds a Ph.D. (2004) from Notre Dame University for her dissertation on St. Gertrud of Helfta. With published articles on medieval women's spirituality, she continued her work on St Gertrud at the Institute for her LMS dissertation;

Matthew Milner, holding a doctorate in history (2007) from the University of Warwick, has been exploring the place of the senses in liturgical life in Tudor England. At the Institute, he extended his research into late medieval English piety with a focus on the physical senses and the sacred.

In addition to the foregoing, the Institute welcomed as Research Associates: Massimiliano Vitiello, Alain Stoclet and Marco Zuccato with research interests respectively in late Roman antiquity, in Pepin, the father of Charlemagne, and in Islamic astronomy; Pascale Duhamel, a recent Licentiate, who continued her work on music in the medieval university of Paris; Rondo Keele, a Visiting Fellow and an Assistant Professor of Philosophy at the Northwestern State University, Louisiana, worked toward the publication of Walter Chatton's last known work, his Quodlibet; Carrie Beneš, a guest from New College of Florida where she is an Assistant Professor of Mediaeval and Renaissance History, explored the use and fortunes of the acronym SPQR in Italy (c1150-1400). Ramez Boutros, a Visiting Fellow from the University of Strasbourg and an Associate Researcher of the CNRS in France, devoted the period of his Fellowship to preparing the publication of early Christian graffiti from Egypt; Svitlana Kobets, a Licentiate of the Institute in 2006, returned as a Research Associate to continue her investigations into iurodstvo, or foolishness for Christ's sake, a unique form of Christian asceticism that had a significant impact on Eastern Slavic spirituality and culture.

LECTURES

Lectures and Conferences sponsored or co-sponsored by the Pontifical Institute during the period under review were the following:

- 28-29 September 2007 The University of Toronto Colloquium in Mediaeval Philosophy, organized by Professors Deborah Black, Peter King and Martin Pickavé.
- 11-14 October 2007 Thirty-Third Byzantine Studies Conference held at Victoria University.
- 6 December 2007 Carrie Benes, New College of Florida, "Whose SPQR? Sovereignty and Semiotics in Medieval Rome."

- 10 April 2008 Piet van Boxel of the Bodleian Library, "A Meeting Place of Cultures: the Bodleian Hebrew Manuscripts". The 2008 Leonard E. Boyle Lecture sponsored by The Friends of the Library, PIMS
- 15 April 2008 Pascale Duhamel. "Guillaume de Machaut's 'Voir Dit' and the Transition of Music from Aural to Written Culture"

HONOURS

Publication of a Festschrift with articles by colleagues, former students, and friends: Classica et Beneventana. Essays Presented to Virginia Brown on the Occasion of Her 65th Birthday, ed. F.T. Coulson and A.A. Grotans, Fédération Internationale des Instituts d'Études Médiévales, Textes et Études du Moyen Âge 36 (Turnhout, 2008).

Randall Rosenfeld was appointed National Archivist of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada.

IN MEMORIAM

During the year we were deeply saddened by the loss of two of our Senior Fellows Emeritus. Father Armand Maurer, C.S.B. passed away on March 22nd, 2008 and within a month he was followed by Father Ambrose Raftis, C.S.B., our former President. Both of them had devoted themselves throughout their academic careers to the work of the Institute, and were blessed with long life and devoted friends and former students. May they rest in peace.

THE INSTITUTE LIBRARY

During the last academic year we catalogued approximately 3,400 new titles – considerably more than double the number in any previous year. The Kelly Library staff of the University of St Michael's College provided original cataloguing of 1201 new titles (235 of them in Slavic languages) – about normal for the yearly intake at PIMS. In addition, however, during his first year as Library Technician Michael Sloan was able to add an additional 1328 new books for which records already existed in the U of T Library system. Also, Father Denis April, C.S.B., working as a volunteer, accessed about 1200 of the 3400 books donated three years ago by Arlette and Frank Thomas. This brings our total catalogued holdings to approximately 123,000 printed volumes. The Library also holds about 8,500 uncatalogued printed books on microfiche (about half of the Palatine Collection held in the Vatican Library) and 9,500 manuscripts on microfilms gathered from over 500 different libraries and archives. We also hold about 800 CD-ROMs and DVDs, 770 of which contain images of letters written by the popes from the 13th to the mid-15th century. We are the sole Toronto licensee for several on-line medieval resources, and have joined with Robarts Library of the University of Toronto to fund access from the library, office, and home for several additional on-line sources. We subscribe to 210 scholarly journals.

Using access to UTL Workflows system, Michael Sloan and our Reference Librarian Bill Edwards were able to correct or otherwise change 1200 catalogue entries of books already in the collection. Some changes simply involved misspellings in the author or title field, others added information to certain other fields; but the largest number of changes involved moving books formerly grouped in series to new locations next to books of a similar author or subject, in order to facilitate patron browsing in the shelves. As well, we have slowly begun what will be a very long process of re-cataloguing into the Library of Congress system the thousands of books currently shelved in the obsolete Lynn-Peterson Alternative Classification for Catholic Books. The goal of all these changes is to rationalize the Library's collection and make it more easily accessible to patrons.

PIMS welcomed 653 different patrons last year, an increase of 36% over the preceding year. Of the 588 Canadian patrons, 93 were members of PIMS or of the University of St. Michael's College (including the Faculty of Theology and undergraduates in Medieval Studies), and 100 were students and professors from the Centre for Medieval Studies. Most of the rest were from other parts of the University of Toronto – notably, the School of Graduate Studies, the departments of History, Philosophy, English, and Classics – or from 26 other Canadian universities in 9 different provinces. We had 35 patrons from the United States; they came from 20 different universities in 17 different states. 30 patrons came from overseas: 19 from the U.K., the others from Egypt, Finland, France, Germany, Israel, Italy, Romania, and Spain. Our library staff shelved about 8000 books used by our patrons. Patrons shelve personally the books they have used in the Palaeography and Catalogue collections.

Bill Edwards was able to fill 38 requests on Inter-Library Loan for photocopies of articles or chapters, but he had to refuse 128 other requests for books held elsewhere in Canada or for reference and palaeography books which, by long-established policy, we do not lend. He received 150 reels of microfilm. 64 of them were gifts, but 95 were films that had been absent for a number of years from our collection. We are now enforcing a more stringent policy regarding loan of microfilms.

By far the most significant single event in the library this past year was the gift of nine medieval manuscript codices from the curator of the Bergendal Collection – adding to the two manuscripts he had already donated in early 2007. Two of them, dating from ca. 970 A.D., are written in late Carolingian minuscule. Another is the very codex presented by the historian-inquisitor Bernard Gui to Pope John XXII in 1329. It contains lives of saints, of Roman emperors, and of popes, all composed by Gui. In addition, there are manuscripts of works by Jacobus de Voragine, Peter Lombard, Lanfranc, Raymond of Peñafort, and the Decretales of Gregory IX. Reception of this number of outstanding manuscripts lifts the PIMS Library, already world-famous, into a still higher echelon of research libraries. We are very grateful to the donor for his continuing gifts of outstanding works to us.

In late summer 2007, two new rows of shelving were added to the stack area. As a result, the entire collection had to be shifted once again – the third time in six years. These additional shelves will allow incorporation of the Thomas Collection into the stacks and allows expansion of Library acquisitions for another ten years.

With funding from the Joan and Clifford Hatch foundation and with an advance from the Friends of the Library 2008–2009 special project, we began this year the digitizing of the Institute slide collection. Approximately 5,000 slides, all concerning manuscript hands and illuminations, were digitized and catalogued and have been incorporated into the on-line collection maintained by FADIS (Fine Art Digital Imaging System maintained by the Fine Art Department of the University of Toronto). This was all done under the supervision of Harriet Sonne. We are grateful to the Hatch family and to the Friends of the Library for enabling us to evaluate the process of preservation of, and increased accessibility to, our collection of approximately 60,000 slides.

Early in 2008 the Library received a gift of 690 books, 200 journal issues, and about 2,000 slides – all concerning monastic history and archaeology – from Dr. Gerald Guest. This fourth accession brings the total size of the Guest Collection to about 4,000 books, 1000 journals, 12,000 slides, and many pamphlets, articles, and images of English and Irish medieval monasteries. Visiting all the sites of those monasteries and priories, and collecting books about them, has been an avocation of Dr. Guest and his wife Marilyn for about four decades. They have created for us a resource that cannot be matched outside the British Isles.

The Endowment Fund of the Friends of the Library has once again increased our acquisitions budget. Books in hagiography were purchased with a donation from Father Edward Jackman. Additional funds were provided by Lucille Wakelin and Jim Carson. Margot King donated over 400 books from her collection on medieval women's spirituality, and Dr. Gerald Dunlevie gave 260 titles in classics. A large number of books were added from the library of the late Father Armand Maurer, C.S.B. Other donors of books during the 2007-2008 academic year were T.D. Barnes, J.M. Blazquez, Virginia Brown, James Carley, André Crépin, Lucy Donkin, Martin Dimnik, C.S.B., Greti Dinkova-Bruun, Barry F.H. Graham, James Hankins, Ann Hutchison, the Janet E. Hutchison Foundation, Edouard Jeaneau, Bernice Kaczynski (for the Journal of Medieval Latin), Leonard Kennedy, C.S.B., James McConica, C.S.B., Neil Moran, Erika Rummel, William Sheehan, C.S.B., Philip Slavin, Brian Stock, Ron B. Thomson, Massimiliano Vitiello, and Jill Webster. I extend my apologies to any donors whose names may have been inadvertently omitted. I am grateful to the staff of the John M. Kelly Library, who continue to provide cataloguing and other services that make it possible for us to facilitate the research of our patrons.

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY

This year we have been fortunate to have as our new administrative assistant, Magda Hayton, a Ph.D. candidate at the Centre for Medieval Studies. As well as keeping track of our finances, co-ordinating our events, answering queries, and so forth, Magda has been innovative in a number of ways. In the office she has reorganized our record keeping, and more publicly she herself has become an excellent caterer for the receptions following our two annual lectures.

Our special project this year focussed on the arrival of the Institute's first holder of the Leonard E. Boyle Chair in Manuscript Studies, Professor Michèle Mulchahey. To enrich Professor Mulchahey's course in paleography, the Friends assisted in the purchase of five facsimiles of manuscripts that illustrate the immense diversity of scripts and illuminations of the medieval period. Facsimiles of good quality are expensive, and we were grateful to the generous support of the Friends in making this acquisition possible.

As has now become a tradition, the Friends sponsored two lectures. On 27 September, Markus Stock, of the University of Toronto's Department of German and the Centre for Medieval Studies, took us back to the world of medieval romance in his lecture, "Me, My Heart, and I: The Minnesinger's Dilemma.” Professor Stock’s engaging manner and his astute critical insights made many in the audience wish to revisit this rich literary tradition. The ninth lecture in memory of Leonard E. Boyle, op was given on 10 April by Piet van Boxel, Hebraica and Judaica Curator at the Bodleian Library and Fellow and Librarian at the Oxford Centre for Hebrew and Jewish Studies. The lecture, “A Meeting Place of Cultures: The Bodleian Hebrew Manuscripts” introduced and revealed fascinating information about a little known facet of the Bodleian’s holdings. Dr Van Boxel, who had accomplished much of his research at the Vatican library, also spoke of his good fortune in working there during Father Boyle’s tenure as Prefect.

We resumed our custom of holding a Christmas Tea in the Laurence K. Shook Common Room on the Friday after American Thanksgiving since we often have visitors from the U.S. at this time. Held this year on 23 November, the tea was a great success: there were more raffle prizes than usual, and we sold a record number of tickets to enthusiastic Friends, faculty and students. We would like to thank the donors for their generosity, among others our almost “regular” donors, Sheila Campbell, Father Dimnik, George Rigg, University of Toronto Press, and Sine Nomine.

Each year we make a contribution to our restricted endowment from funds received from our Friends equivalent to that spent on our Special Project. This year from some of the interest earned on our endowment we have been able to give about $10,000 to the Library for acquisitions. Assisting the Library with new purchases has been a major goal of our work, and we are very happy to be in a position to show our Friends who have been loyally helping us over the years that we are making a substantial difference to Library acquisitions.

The adopt-a-journal programme continues to attract new donors, and the money raised for this purpose allows the Librarian to add what would have been spent on journals to the acquisitions fund. We are grateful to our Friends for generous financial support and for gifts in kind – books, microfilms, and journals. Without the energy of our volunteers and the thoughtful contribution of the Committee of the Friends of the Library, we would not be able to accomplish much of what we now do. There are many others who help behind the scenes. I would like to thank all our Friends and supporters for their time, their gifts and donations, and for the many other ways in which they have been helping to maintain the Institute Library as a major resource for medieval research.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLICATIONS

The Department of Publications has in print about 300 titles in addition to the volumes of Mediaeval Studies, the Institute's annual journal. In 2007–2008, the department produced nine new titles as well as the 2007 volume of the journal.

Books Published and Planned

The new titles are:

Charles Hilken, Memory and Community of Medieval Southern Italy (Studies and Texts 157)

Walter Chatton: Lectura super Sententias, Liber I, distinctiones 3–7, ed.

†Joseph C. Wey and Girard J. Etzkorn (Studies and Texts 158)

Peter Lombard: The Sentences – Book 2: On Creation, trans. Giulio Silano (Mediaeval Sources in Translation 43)

A Warrior Bishop of the Twelfth Century, trans. Brian Pavlac (Mediaeval Sources in Translation 44)

The Gilson Lectures on Thomas Aquinas, introduced by James P. Reilly (Etienne Gilson Series 30)

The Deposition of Richard II, ed. David Carlson (Toronto Medieval Latin Texts 29)

An Epitome of Biblical History, ed. David Townsend (Toronto Medieval Latin Texts 30)

Dictionary of Old English A–G on CD-ROM

Making Sense: Constructing Meaning in Early English, ed. Antonette diPaolo Healey and Kevin Kiernan (Publications of the Dictionary of Old English 7)

In 2008–09, we plan to publish ten to twelve new titles.

Volume 69 (2007) of Mediaeval Studies contains two texts and six articles.

Contributors were from Canada, the United States, and Europe, and include fellows of the Institute and associate fellows.

Grants and Fundraising

In addition to the usual subsidies received from the Aid to Scholarly Publications Program, the department (largely through the good offices of James Carley) raised approximately $90,000 to be directed towards new departmental publications.

Revenues and Expenses

Total revenue for the department was $248,829 ($355,916 last year). The fall off in revenue was in part attributable to the reduced production in 2006–2007. We were also hurt by the strength of the Canadian dollar, which reduced our exchange premium by approximately $16,000.

Total expenses for the department was $413,090 (down $15,446 from last year). Inventory write down at year end, which totalled $56,302, was higher than last year by $20,712.

Highlights of the Year

In 2008 the Department of Publications marked 75 years of scholarly publishing in medieval studies with important new initiatives:

We developed and actively began soliciting manuscripts for three new books series: British Writers of the Middle Ages and the Early Modern Period (edited by James P. Carley, Anne Hudson, Richard Sharpe, and James Willoughby); Catholic and Recusant Texts of the Late Medieval and Early Modern Periods (edited by T.S. Freeman, Ann M. Hutchison, and Alison Shell); and Medieval Law and Theology (edited by Joseph Goering and Giulio Silano). In addition, Mary Carruthers (New York University and All Souls College, Oxford) assumed the role of general editor for the Institute's long-standing series of Mediaeval Sources in Translation.

Over the year, PIMS Publications entered into an agreement with the University of Durham to co-publish Durham Medieval and Renaissance Texts and Durham Medieval and Renaissance Studies. New titles in the series will be developed editorially by Durham, and produced by PIMS. Durham will be responsible for raising subsidies for each book published, and PIMS and Durham will share revenues.

In April 2008, distribution of the department's publications was moved to University of Toronto Press. This should result in wider distribution of our titles, and more precise sales record keeping and analysis.

After long negotiation, the Canadian Knowledge Research Network (a consortium of university libraries across Canada) placed an order with Gibson Library Services for digital versions of backlist titles from Canadian scholarly publishers. The revenue for PIMS Publications from this sale will be $409,000, and will be paid in three instalments: $123,000 in 2008–2009, $143,000 in 2009–2010, and $143,000 in 2010–2011.

In November 2007, I assumed the position of Director of Publications, and Jonathan Black, who had been serving as editor-in-chief, returned to full-time responsibility as editor of the journal. A Publications Executive was also formed this past year. In addition to its normal administrative responsibilities, this committee is responsible for the initial evaluation of all publishing projects from an editorial and financial position, and is comprised of Bill Harnum (chair), James Carley, Jonathan Black, and Andy Orchard (University of Toronto), with the Praeses as ex officio member. The department is staffed by Jean Hoff and Fred Unwalla, editors, Jonathan Black, Editor of Mediaeval Studies, and Angela MacAloney, administrative assistant.

THE INSTITUTE WEBSITE

From January to December 2007, the Institute website received over 763,000 hits, an increase of 15% over the previous year. That raw statistic is not unimpressive, but a more telling one is the number of unique visitors – the number of individual users who visited the site and who viewed at least one page during a specific period. This number was a few short of 36,000, or approximately 3000 per month, and a modest increase of 12% over the previous year. The site received the usual minor (but extensive) updating to its contents in the spring and the autumn. Most of the changes were limited to the modules devoted to Academics, the Library, and to Publications (in particular the announcement of new initiatives marking the 75 years of scholarly publishing at the Institute). A few technical improvements were introduced at various times over the year, especially those relating to site security. Measures seeking to limit (if not entirely prevent) the misuse of email addresses were also completed. For help and forbearance in various matters, editorial and technical, I should like to thank once again, my colleagues, Jonathan Black and Jean Hoff, and to Andreea Gheorghie at the Resource Centre for Academic Technology in the University of Toronto.

SINE NOMINE ENSEMBLE FOR MEDIEVAL MUSIC

SINE NOMINE's season, as in the past, was shaped by the interests of its members, and reflects the historical curiosities of PIMS Fellows, and, indeed, the cultural interests of the Institute's founder. 'Heaven Touching Earth' examined aspects of the economy of salvation through two fifteenth-century English plays for the season of Advent, with related music (the plays were co-productions with the PLS). 'Plagues and Pestilence' offered a not entirely light-hearted programme for Lent (while I am reasonably certain no audience member contracted anything untoward, I cannot speak to improvements in their penitential practices). The final concert, 'Heaven Sounding on Earth: Music of the Spheres', explored the relationship between music, astronomy, and astrology in an enlightened period when it was not thought odd to set the technical language of astronomy to music.

BENEFACTIONS AND BEQUESTS

The Institute welcomes gifts and bequests in furtherance of its objectives. Donations can be directed to the Institute itself, to the Mediaeval Studies Foundation, or to specific funds and named gifts. All such donations (including books, works of art or other artifacts appropriate to the pursuit of medieval studies) will qualify for Income Tax relief in Canada and in the United States.

The Institute's Library has benefited from its inception from gifts and bequests which have provided the foundation for some of its most important collections. Permanent endowment is sought also for academic positions and projects to which a donor's name can be attached. Named Chairs are being sought to support research and teaching in the central disciplines of medieval thought and culture, particularly in Philosophy, Theology, Liturgy, Canon Law, Art and Archaeology. Named funds may also be established for student scholarships, research grants and visiting professorships. Donors may wish to underwrite an ongoing series of publications, individual publications, or the Institute journal, Mediaeval Studies. There are opportunities as well for named or memorial areas in the Institute, including its seminar rooms, areas within the Library, and the Library itself.

MEDIAEVAL STUDIES FOUNDATION

The Mediaeval Studies Foundation holds in trust the endowment funds of the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies. It exists only to support the work of the Institute and manages trusts and restricted funds directed to specific purposes, disbursing earnings for the operation of the Institute's scholarly programmes. To facilitate contributions from the United States of America, a complementary American Corporation has been established (see below).

SPECIAL FUNDS

Among the special funds invested to support specific objectives are the following:

THE FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY FUND

The long-term objective of the Friends of the Library Committee is to build up a fund whose earnings would support the purchase of manuscripts, books, periodicals, microfilms, CD-ROM materials, readers, and computer equipment.

THE CARR MEMORIAL FUND FOR PAPAL REGISTERS

The Carr Memorial Collection holds films of medieval papal registers. The Fund allows us to continue acquisition of films and/or CD-ROMS of the registers from A.D. 872 to 1464 including, eventually, the registers of the Avignon popes.

THE MICHAEL M. SHEEHAN MEMORIAL FUND

Created in memory of Father Michael M. Sheehan, the earnings of this fund are used to provide scholarship awards in medieval history or law.

THE EDWARD A. SYNAN MEMORIAL FUND

The earnings from this fund, created by colleagues, former students, and friends of the late Msgr. Edward A. Synan, support studies or research in medieval philosophy.

AMERICAN PONTIFICAL INSTITUTE FOR MEDIAEVAL STUDIES CORPORATION

As noted above, “The American Pontifical Institute for Mediaeval Studies Corporation,” #1705 308 4016 038, has been established to facilitate contributions of persons and organizations in the United States. Gifts qualify for charitable exemptions as provided by the United States Internal Revenue Service.

Anyone considering a gift or bequest to support the Institute’s work is asked to contact Dr. Richard Alway, Praeses, 59 Queen’s Park Crescent East, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, M5S 2C4. Telephone: (416) 926-7142.
