The President's Remarks

As it enters its ninth decade of service to high scholarship in the Middle Ages, the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies, Canada's oldest research institute in the humanities, remains focussed on research and study in the thought, culture, writings and institutions of medieval society. Its secondary purpose is to disseminate the results of that research through teaching and scholarly publishing. In pursuing this mission the Institute continues to provide training at the highest level in the fundamentals of medieval scholarship in languages, manuscript studies and related disciplines.

To give full expression to its academic purpose the Institute offers programmes at the post-doctoral level leading to the License and Doctorate in Mediaeval Studies, provides an internationally recognized specialized research library for scholars, and supports an important publishing division, the only university press in North America devoted exclusively to medieval studies.

Leadership and Governance

This Report covers the academic years 2008–2009 and 2009–2010, a period of transition and renewal for the Pontifical Institute. In July 2008, I succeeded the Rev. James K. McConica, CSB as Praeses of the Institute, an office he had held for twelve years. In January 2010, Mr Jonathan Bengtson followed the Rev. James K. Farge, CSB in the position of Institute Librarian with Father Farge stepping down after twenty-two years to become Curator of Special Collections and the Rare Book Room at the Library. The Rev. Martin Dimnik, CSB and the Rev. T. Allan Smith, CSB continued in their positions as Academic Dean and Registrar respectively. The occasion of this Report provides a welcome opportunity to thank again the priests of the Congregation of St Basil for their dedicated involvement with and many contributions to the Institute since its earliest days. Their leadership and continuing support have been essential to the growth and development of the Institute, its academic mission and the emergence of Toronto as a major centre for study and research in the intellectual and material culture of the Middle Ages.

Other senior staff changes involved, in 2009, Mr Stan Kamski following a distinguished career with the Toronto Dominion Bank becoming Institute Treasurer, and former business executive Mr Brian O'Malley joining the Institute as fundraising counsel.

In late 2009, the Rt. Hon. Stephen Harper, Prime Minister of Canada appointed Mrs Nicole C. Eaton, Chair of the Institute's Board of Governors, to the Senate of Canada. Senator Eaton graciously agreed to continue leading our board in addition to her new duties. Mrs Maruja Jackman, an enthusiastic advocate of the Institute for many years, and Mr Paul Barnicke, of the accounting firm PWC Associates, both joined the board, with Mr Barnicke serving as the representative of the Mediaeval Studies Foundation. We are grateful for the continuing support of our Chancellor, the Most Rev. Thomas Collins, Archbishop of Toronto.

Academic Affairs

Appointment as an Associate Fellow of the Institute was extended to Professor John Magee, Director of the Centre for Medieval Studies at the University of Toronto. This will have the added intended benefit of facilitating collaboration between the Institute and the Centre on matters of common interest including encouraging the strengthening and further development of the undergraduate programme in Medieval Studies at the University of St Michael's College. The future health of the medieval academic enterprise at Toronto and the University of Toronto depends on a mutually supportive relationship between the Institute, the Centre for Medieval Studies, and the University's Faculty of Arts and Science.

Professor Alain Stoclet, Maitre de Conférences at the Université Lyon 2 was also appointed Research Fellow.

A serious loss to the Institute's academic fellowship occurred with the untimely death of Professor Virginia Brown in July 2009. A widely attended memorial service in her honour was held in St Basil's Church on 22 October 2009.

The Institute's post-doctoral programme entered its second decade with the admittance of four new Mellon Fellows in each of 2008 and 2009.

Ramez Boutros, a candidate for the L.M.S., earned his Ph.D. from the University of Strasbourg in 2002. He has been working for the past sixteen years as Chercheur at the Institut français d'archéologie orientale in Cairo (IFAO) and has been invited twice to the Centre National de Recherche Scientifique (CNRS) in France as an Associate Researcher. While at the Institute he undertook a comparison of the transmission from Egypt to Rome and the Eastern Mediterranean basin of the cult of the Anargyroi physician-saints Cyr and John (third or fourth century) and that of the Holy Family, highlighting the diversity of exchanges between eastern and western Christian traditions.

Stephan Dusil, Mellon Fellow and L.M.S. candidate, completed his Ph.D. in Frankfurt am Main where he was part of the International Max Planck Research School for Comparative Legal History. He further holds degrees in law from the universities of Bielefeld (MA) and Frankfurt am Main. He also worked on his Habilitationschrift with Professor Andreas Thier in Zurich, who is himself a student of the distinguished doyen of medieval historians of canon law, Professor Peter Landau, a scholarly sponsor of the Leonard Boyle Chair at the Institute. At the Institute, Dr Dusil was working on pre-Gratian canon law collections of the Gregorian period, a research project for which the Institute's resources are outstanding.

Sylvia Parsons was Assistant Professor of Classics in the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge. She received her Ph.D. in 2005 at the University of Toronto. Her research interests centre on classical and medieval Latin epic. During her tenure of the Mellon Fellowship she worked on fictionality in eleventh- and twelfth-century Latin poetry.

John F. Romano, Mellon Fellow and L.M.S. candidate, holds degrees from Brown University and from Harvard, where he received his doctorate. He held a teaching appointment in the History Department at Colorado College, Colorado Springs, and then was Visiting Assistant Professor of History at Moravian College Pennsylvania. His project was entitled “Ritual and society in early medieval Rome,” deriving from his doctoral work at Harvard with Professor Michael McCormick. Dr Romano’s Harvard years were distinguished by many honours, including seven teaching fellowships. His work having incorporated a wide range of original source materials – art, archaeology, and architecture in addition to manuscript and epigraphic sources – recommended him particularly to the Institute. He is currently Assistant Professor at Benedictine College in Atchison, Kansas.

Fabrizio Titone, Mellon Fellow and L.M.S. candidate who holds degrees from the University of Palermo and Cagliari, from which he received his Ph.D. in 2002, is a historian of the late medieval Mediterranean. In 1998 he also held a Fellowship at the London School of Economics, studying with Stephan Epstein in History. Before arriving at the Institute he had been teaching at Palermo. His project for the year was “The City under the Crown of Aragon Between the Fourteenth and Sixteenth Centuries – Identity, Memory, Civil Cultures: A Comparative View.” Dr Titone is the author of two monographs: I magistrati cittadini: Gli ufficiali scrutinati in Sicilia da Martino I ad Alfonso V, which was released by Sciascia in 2008, and Governments of the universitates: Urban Communities in Sicily in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Centuries, published by Brepols in 2010.

Stefan Vander Elst, Mellon Fellow and L.M.S. candidate, earned his doctorate in comparative literature from Princeton University in 2006, writing on Chaucer and the Crusades. He presented a lecture on The Knight’s Tale at XIIe Congrès de la Société internationale de littérature courtoise, held in Lausanne–Geneva over July and August 2009. His research centred on the use of crusade imagery in chivalric romances that emerged during the Hundred Years’ War. In January 2009, Dr Vander

Elst was appointed to the Department of English, University of San Diego, where he specializes in Middle English literature, especially Chaucer and fourteenth-century English romance literature, rhetoric, and propaganda of the later crusades, as well as literary representations of medieval politics.

Helen Birkett, Mellon Fellow and L.M.S. Candidate, earned her doctorate from the University of York in 2009 with a dissertation on “The Hagiographical Writings of Jocelin of Furness: Text and Context.” She is an active participant in the International Medieval Congress at Leeds and presented “Monks, Lay-brothers, and Laymen: Status and Sanctity in the Vita S. Waldevi” at the July 2009 session. As a Mellon Fellow, Dr Birkett researched “Visionary narratives and their dissemination in the late twelfth- and early thirteenth-century British Isles.”

Robert Getz, Mellon Fellow and L.M.S. Candidate, received his doctorate from the University of Toronto in 2008 with a dissertation devoted to four Blickling Homilies. Dr Getz taught Latin for four years at the Centre for Medieval Studies and is currently a research assistant on the Becket Project at the University of Toronto. Further work on the Blickling Homilies constituted the core of his research as a Mellon Fellow at the Institute.

Stephanie Hayes-Healy, Mellon Fellow and L.M.S. Candidate, earned her doctorate in 2006 from Trinity College, Dublin, with a dissertation on “The Concept and Practice of Pilgrimage in Early Medieval Ireland.” From 2006 to 2008 she was a Visiting Assistant Professor of History at Mount Holyoke College, and subsequently history tutor and occasional lecturer in history at Oxford University. While at the Institute, Dr Hayes-Healy explored the topic “Jerome, the Vulgate and peregrinatio.”

Aden Kumler, Mellon Fellow and L.M.S. Candidate, holds an assistant professorship in the Department of Art History at the University of Chicago. She received her Ph.D. from Harvard University in 2007 for a dissertation entitled “Visual Translation, Visible Theology: Illuminated Compendia of Spiritual Instruction in Late Medieval France and England.” A paper, “Translating the Reader-Viewer: Visual appropriation and the promises of devotional literature in Paris, BnF, MS n. a. fr. 4338,” read at the Translating the Middle Ages Conference held in October 2008 at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, was published in the conference proceedings. As a Mellon Fellow, Dr Kumler researched “The Multiplication of the Species: Medieval Eucharistic Morphologies.”

Jonathan Seiling, L.M.S. Candidate, was awarded the Ph.D. in Theology by the University of St Michael's College in 2008 for his dissertation “From Antinomy to Sophiology: Modern Russian Religious Consciousness and Sergei Bulgakov's Critical Appropriation of German Idealism.” He was a post-doctoral Research Fellow at the Centre for Reformation and Renaissance Studies, University of Toronto. An essay by him appeared in the Catholic Historical Review in 2008. As a Research Fellow of the Institute, Dr Seiling studied the influence of Scotist doctrines in the early writings of Johann Fabri von Leutkirch (1478–1541).

In addition to the foregoing, the Institute welcomed five Research Fellows: Maria Fomina, a specialist in the study of medieval Russian miscellanies, who continued her study of the Uspensk Sbornik, a late twelfth- to early thirteenth-century miscellany associated with Dormition Cathedral in the Kremlin. Svitlana Kobets, a graduate of the Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, and recent Licentiate, worked on a monograph entitled “Paradigms of Folly: The Holy Fool in Russian Culture.” Kevin Vaughan, a graduate of the University of St Michael's College and sessional lecturer in theology at the Toronto School of Theology, explored themes arising from his dissertation, including the notion of spiritual exercises in Aquinas' writings. Massimiliano Vitiello, also a recent Licentiate, and author of numerous articles on the traditions and historiography of late antiquity and the early middle ages, worked on a commentary and translation of some of the letters of Cassiodorus as well as on a study of Justinian and Italy. A Visiting Fellow from Cornell University, Carin Ruff worked on preparing an edition of Alcuin's De grammatica (al. Dialogus Franconis et Saxonis de octo partibus orationis).

In 2009, the Praeses was able to announce financial commitments from private donors which, when fully redeemed in 2012 and taken together with a matching grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation of New York, will endow the post-doctoral programme. Along with previously existing endowments provided in honour of two former Praeses of the Institute, the Rev. L.K. Shook, CSB and Monsignor Edward Synan, this provides a secure base going forward for the License programme.

Also, 2009 saw the inauguration of the PIMS Summer School in Latin Palaeography taught by Michèle Mulchahey, Leonard E. Boyle Professor of Manuscript Studies, and Greti Dinkova-Bruun, Associate Fellow of the Institute, which attracted a full complement of sixteen students from universities across North America. The results of a questionnaire showed strong satisfaction with all aspects of the programme, a happy result which carried over to the 2010 Summer School.

Based on this positive start and animated by the desire to help provide young scholars with specific academic skills they will need in active research careers in order to deal appropriately with primary source material, the Institute, supported by grants from the Delmas Foundation of New York and the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, will offer in the summers of 2011 and 2012 a programme in Manuscript Studies in Rome in conjunction with the American Academy, and in Toronto under the direction of the Boyle Chair, Professor Michèle Mulchahey. It is anticipated that a formal academic credential will be awarded to successful candidates.

During the 2009–2010 academic year, the Institute, with a grant from the J.P. Bickell Foundation of Toronto and in collaboration with the University of Toronto's Centre for Medieval Studies, established a Distinguished Visiting Scholar programme designed to bring senior international scholars to PIMS and Toronto during their academic leave or sabbatical year. The inaugural Distinguished Visiting Scholar (fall term, 2010) was Professor John Marenbon, Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge.

The convocation on 3 October 2009, presided over by our Chancellor, the Most Rev. Thomas Collins, Archbishop of Toronto, celebrated the 80th anniversary of the Institute's founding and the 70th anniversary of PIMS's charter from the Holy See. Twenty-one graduates were granted the License in Mediaeval Studies. Honorary degrees were awarded to Professor Elizabeth A.R. (Peggy) Brown, Mr Mario Cortellucci, Professor Umberto Eco and posthumously to the Rev. Victor B. Brezik, CSB. Professor Brian Stock was invested as an Honorary Fellow of the Institute.

Publications

PIMS published ten new books in 2009–2010 bringing to 325 the number of books currently in print. Five new book series were established, including Islam and Muslim Societies in the Medieval and Early Modern Periods (edited by Ruba Kana'an) and Judaism and Jewish–Christian Relations in the Medieval World (edited by Devorah Schoenfeld and John Marcus Beard). It is hoped these two series will represent initial steps at PIMS in developing a new scholarly focus on the history and interaction of the three great Abrahamic religious traditions in the Middle Ages.

The other new series are: History of Medieval Science (edited by Betsy Price), Text–Image–Context: Studies in Medieval Manuscript Illumination (edited by Jeffrey Hamburger), and Vita evangelica: Medieval and Early Modern Spiritual Texts from Western Europe (edited by Anne Mouron).

It can also be reported that Publications had record book sales in 2009–2010.

It is important to recognize that private donations have enabled PIMS to build up a fund that can be drawn upon to support the publication of manuscripts submitted by international scholars. Current government policy does not provide for assistance from granting agencies in aid of publishing works by authors who do not hold Canadian citizenship. Having this particular fund available enables us to solicit manuscripts exclusively on the basis of quality without reference to the nationality of the author. This is essential for a publishing enterprise which aspires to an international presence.

The 2009 issue of Mediaeval Studies has been dedicated to the memory of the late Professor Virginia Brown, Senior Fellow Emerita whose long and distinguished association with the journal has contributed significantly to the high esteem in which scholars continue to hold it.

Library

The Institute Library, a world-ranked research resource for scholarly inquiry and study in the thought and culture of the Middle Ages, in 2009 received the gift from an anonymous donor of seven medieval manuscripts dating from the tenth to the fifteenth centuries. Deposited in the library's Rare Book Room, they have joined eleven manuscripts previously obtained by way of donation from the same source. It is important to note that these manuscripts have already been used in components of our palaeography summer programme in conformity with the donor's wishes.

Wide use continues to be made of the Library's consolidated resources by scholars from Canada, the United States and abroad. Visitors from more than 30 Canadian universities and colleges in 8 provinces made up the largest group of Library users and were joined by scholars from universities in 23 states in the US and a growing number from Europe.

In 2009–2010 over 3,000 new books were added to a collection that now contains more than 160,000 items, including 130,000 printed books and 15,000 books on microfiche and microfilm.

Philanthropy

The Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies receives no direct government grant in support of its activities. We depend therefore on the generosity of foundations, individuals, and friends to make it possible for the Institute and its work to continue.

In the spring of 2009 the Institute received confirmation of the largest gift by an individual to the Institute in its eighty-year history. Mr Mario Cortellucci of Toronto will provide $1 million in support of the Institute and its various programmes over a four-year period.

In addition to this landmark donation, the Institute has also initiated the President's Council, membership in which will recognize donors of $5,000 to an annual fund at the Institute. The goal is to support the Institute's core operation. We are delighted to report that seventeen individuals joined the President's Council in its first six months.

We also wish to recognize the important and ongoing assistance given to the Institute by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation of New York whose support of our Post-Doctoral Seminar and Research Programme, including a bridging grant, has enabled us to raise matching funds to make this Programme permanent.

In addition, we express our deep gratitude to the Gladys Kriebel Delmas Foundation of New York, the J.P. Bickell Foundation of Toronto, the Janet E. Hutchison Foundation of Toronto and the Archdiocese of Toronto for their signal support of various aspects of our work.

The Institute Library

During the past two years the Library added about 5760 titles, 900 of which were received from Dr Gerald Guest in 2007–2008 but which were only catalogued in 2009. We want to acknowledge the invaluable assistance of the Kelly Library staff, which catalogued 2260 of the 5760 titles.

Although we have no exact count of our total resources, we estimate that we have about 160,000 items (not counting about 60,000 slides). Printed books amount to about 130,000 titles; books on microfiche or microfilm 15,000; reels of microfilm 9000; CD-ROMs and DVDs about 700. We subscribe to around 200 scholarly journals in 10 different languages. We hold 25 manuscript codices and over 4100 off-prints and pamphlets. We also help purchase online resources that are available to everyone in the U of T system.

During the past two years we had 1385 different readers, about half of whom received passes for the year. This was an increase of around 5% over previous years. Most of them (1245) were Canadians from 9 different provinces and at least 34 different universities or colleges, or were private scholars. From the USA 85 users came from at least 21 different states and 19 different universities. Fifty-five patrons from overseas used the Library.

On the average we serve 20 to 30 patrons each day. We shelved over 15,000 books that they used and provided access to over 600 microfilms / microfiches and around 300 items from the Joseph Pope Rare Book Room. We gave many tours of the Library to individuals, classes, and other groups, the largest of which was the Bibliographical Society of Canada (25 persons).

Some sections of the Library were moved or otherwise reorganized. Due to lack of space in the Rare Book Room, half of the rare folio and oversize volumes were moved into the locked glass display wall in the Reference Room. The Guest Collection (which now houses about 4000 books and 8 file drawers of miscellaneous pamphlets and articles) was shifted to the former Beneventan project room, and the Gilson and Maritain

Collections exchanged location with the Slide Collection. The Gilson Collection is currently being reorganized to integrate uncatalogued materials, rearrange collections by publication date, integrate association copies, and generally make the collection more accessible and better known. The same will eventually be done for the Maritain Collection.

With funds from the Hatch Foundation and the Friends of the Library, we were able to digitize about 5,000 colour slides, making them easily accessible on the Fine Arts Digital Imaging System (FADIS) of the University of Toronto and to Powerpoint presentations. We are in the process of continuing this project with the 12,000 slides from the Guest Collection on English monastic architecture and archaeology.

Mr John McQuillen, a doctoral candidate in Art and Book History, compiled for the first time a detailed catalogue of the Library's 39 incunables (books printed prior to 1501). The records are accessible on the University of Toronto library catalogue, as well as the OCLC Worldcat catalogue.

The most significant single event in the Library in the past two years was the gift of seven medieval manuscript codices from the curator of the Bergendal Collection, making a total of eighteen that he has donated over the past three years. Reception of this number of outstanding manuscripts lifts the PIMS Library, already a world-famous resource for scholars, into a still higher echelon of research libraries. We are very grateful to the donor for his continuing gifts of outstanding works to us. The manuscripts were particularly valuable for the Summer School in Latin Palaeography, for which the Library was the host.

We are grateful to the Janet E. Hutchison Foundation, Father Edward Jackman, the Friends of the Library, and friends and colleagues of the late Virginia Brown and the late Caroline Suma-Valenzuela for contributions to our acquisitions funds. A gift from Mr Leonard Gillis made possible the conservation of several books in the Joseph Pope Rare Book Room. Other contributions were received from Father Conrad Harkins, OFM, Robert Henry, John McErlean, Myra Nan Rosenfeld, Penny Cole, and Erika Rummel. The value of gifts in kind – manuscripts and printed works – amounted to nearly $700,000 over the two years.

Father Edouard Jeuneau gave about 350 books from his libraries in Paris and Coudray-au-Perche – many of them rare items published prior to 1800. A donation from Lucille Wakelin made possible the shipment of those books to Toronto. Large numbers of books were also donated by Diane Bennett, Anne and Derrick Crawley, Margot King, Chris McDonough, David Sehl, and Robert Siebelhoff. James Carley gave two costly items that would have been hard to acquire under our budget. Father James K. McConica, CSB and Jonathan Bengtson presented collections of books on Oxford University, its colleges and libraries.

Other gifts in kind came from Katie Anderson, Adelina Angu-sheva-Tihanov, the late Virginia Brown, Sheila Campbell, Shane Carmody, Marc Cels, Isabel Cochelin, Dana Cushing, Father Martin Dimnik, CSB, Greti Dinkova-Bruun, Michael Elliot, Margaret English, Karen Evans, Gerrit Gerrits, Joseph Goering, Paul Grendler, James Hankins, Daniel Hobbins, Ann Hutchison, Bernice Kaczynski (for The Journal of Medieval Latin), Nicole Lemaitre, Father Robert Madden, CSB, John McErlean, Brian Merillees, Mark Meyerson, Laura Mitchell, Maria Parani, Martin Pickavé, Father William Sheehan, CSB, Evangelina Spyrou, Brian Stock, Ron B. Thomson, Catherine Ukas, and Jill Webster. We extend apologies to any donors whose names may have been inadvertently omitted from these acknowledgments.

James K. Farge
Librarian (1998–2009)

Jonathan B. Bengtson
Librarian (2010–)

Note from James Farge: As I make my final report as Librarian of the Institute, I wish to acknowledge the services to the Library by the late Caroline Suma-Valenzuela, who provided technical services for over 20 years and who died in December 2009. I also wish to thank William Edwards and Michael Sloan who have worked so well with me in making the resources of the Library available and readily accessible to all who come here to study.

The Friends of the Library

The year 2008–2009 was a busy one for the Friends, and we were very pleased that our energetic administrative assistant, Magda Hayton, a Ph.D. candidate at the Centre for Medieval Studies, agreed to help for a second year.

For our special project, we responded to a request from the Fine Art Digital Imaging System (FADIS), which is run from the Institute of Communications and Culture at the Mississauga campus of the University of Toronto, to preserve the Library's valuable collection of more than 5000 slides of manuscripts. As a result of support from the Friends, this important collection, put together by the late Father Sheehan and other Institute Fellows, has been digitized and catalogued by the FADIS. Thus the images are not only preserved, but are also available to scholars and those interested in the medieval period for research and teaching. We are grateful to the Friends for making this possible.

Following our usual practice, the Friends sponsored two lectures. On 3 October 2008, Alexandra Gillespie of the University of Toronto's Department of English and the Centre for Medieval Studies spoke about the impact of the printing press in her engagingly titled lecture, "Of Pardons, Print and Sealing Wax." Professor Gillespie's insights and observations held the attention of the near-capacity audience, which included our Chancellor, the Archbishop, in Room 100 of Alumni Hall. The tenth lecture in memory of Leonard E. Boyle, OP, was given on 3 April 2009 by James Hankins, Professor of History at Harvard University and a specialist in Renaissance intellectual history. The lecture, "Marsilio Ficino and the Religion of the Philosophers," would certainly have been enjoyed by Father Boyle, to whom, as a long-time friend, Professor Hankins paid warm tribute.

On Saturday, 1 November 2008, we held a highly successful Book Fair in Robert Madden Hall in Carr Hall, thanks to the generosity of St Michael's College in allowing us to hold it during their Book Sale and thus to share in the publicity. Although there were certainly some book dealers, we were delighted at the attendance of so many scholars and Friends who found books of interest and, in some cases, essential for their research. A special thank you to those who sorted books before the sale and to the many who worked on the day setting up the tables, then keeping them in reasonable order, checking out buyers, and so forth. We were delighted with the proceeds of almost $6000.

The Christmas Tea was held as usual in the Laurence K. Shook Common Room on 28 November 2008, the Friday after American Thanksgiving, since we often have visitors from the U.S. at this time. There was a good selection of raffle prizes this year, and we sold an enormous number of tickets to enthusiastic Friends, faculty and students. The proceeds from raffle tickets, Christmas cards and T-shirts came to the record high of $853.75. We would like to thank the donors of the raffle for their generosity, especially our almost "regular" donors, Sheila Campbell, Father Dimnik, George Rigg, the University of Toronto Press, and Sine Nomine, the Institute's ensemble-in-residence.

Even though this was a difficult year for financial institutions and many others, we were touched by the generosity of the annual donations of our Friends, and we were delighted to be in a position to make a contribution to our restricted endowment. As has been our mandate since the beginning, the amount is at least equivalent to that spent on our Special Project.

The adopt-a-journal programme continues, thanks to loyal "adoptions" and also to new donors. The money raised for this purpose allows the Librarian to add what would have been spent on journals to the acquisitions fund, especially important in the current financial climate. We are extremely grateful to our Friends for generous financial support and for gifts in kind. This year our volunteers worked especially long hours, and along with the contribution of the Committee of the Friends of the Library and others who worked tirelessly behind the scenes, we were able to mount successful events, such as the Book Fair, which helped raise more funds than we had thought possible.

The Friends began the year 2009–2010 with a new administrative assistant, Jonathan Robinson, a Ph.D. candidate at the Centre for Medieval Studies. He has been an excellent organizer, keeping records up to date, co-ordinating our events, answering queries, and managing our finances. During the year, he defended his thesis, and we feel very fortunate that Dr Robinson has agreed to continue to be our administrative assistant.

This year we have had an especially important special project; that is, contributing to the Virginia Brown Library Acquisitions Fund, established to honour the memory of Professor Virginia Brown (d. 4 July 2009), who became a Fellow of the Pontifical Institute in 1971, and who, during her almost forty years at PIMS as a highly respected scholar, valued colleague, and dedicated teacher, was also a generous patron of the Institute Library. By means of this Fund, which has been initiated this year and which we hope to continue, we aim to enable the Library to maintain its internationally acclaimed status as a major reference resource for medieval studies. Our Librarian, Father James K. Farge, has made special book plates which will be placed in all volumes purchased with these funds.

As is customary, the Friends sponsored two lectures. On 12 November 2009, Professor Martin Pickavé, of the University of Toronto's Department of Philosophy and the Centre for Medieval Studies, gave us some samples of debate in the medieval schools with his lecture, "Jokes in the Classroom." The audience listened in fascination and often amazement to some of the examples discussed. The eleventh lecture in memory of Leonard E. Boyle, OP was given on 21 April 2010 by Professor Paul Nelles of Carleton University in Ottawa. In his lecture, "Paint, Print, and Propaganda: The Vatican Library and the Roman Press under Sixtus V," we were given a fascinating guided tour of the wall paintings in the Library's main room. Though his work is ongoing, Professor Nelles spoke of the encouragement and help he had received from Father Boyle as his project got underway.

Our Christmas Tea was held as usual in the Laurence K. Shook Common Room on 27 November 2009, the Friday after American Thanksgiving. The raffle prizes attracted enthusiastic Friends, faculty and students and sales were brisk. The total sale of cards, pins and raffle tickets came to a gratifying $683. We would like to thank all those, donors, helpers and sales-people, who helped us arrive at this sum.

The contribution of almost $6000 to our restricted endowment from funds received from our Friends was augmented by a generous donation of $3000 from the Janet Hutchison Foundation. We are pleased that this year the fund has been showing good signs of recovery.

The adopt-a-journal programme continues thanks to many who have been adopting since the programme began and to new donors. We are grateful to our Friends for generous financial support and for gifts in kind – books, microfilms and journals. The commitment of volunteers and the work of the Committee of the Friends of the Library enable us to accomplish much of what we now do, and, above all, help maintain the Institute Library as a major resource for medieval research.

- Image, Text and Church, 1380–1600: Essays for Margaret Aston*, ed. Linda Clark, Maureen Jurkowski, and Colin Richmond (Papers in Mediaeval Studies 20)
- Geoffrey of Vinsauf: Poetria nova – Revised edition, trans. Margaret F. Nims, introduction by Martin Camargo (Mediaeval Sources in Translation 49)
- Peace and Protection in the Middle Ages*, ed. T.B. Lambert and David Rollason (Durham Medieval and Renaissance Monographs and Essays 1)

The Sermons of William of Newburgh, ed. A.B. Kraebel (Toronto Medieval Latin Texts 31)

M. Michèle Mulchahey, "The use of philosophy, especially by the Preachers ...": Albert the Great, the Studium at Cologne, and the Dominican Curriculum, Etienne Gilson Lecture 2008 (Etienne Gilson Series 32)

Volume 71 (2009) is dedicated to the memory of Virginia Brown (1940–2009), editor of volumes 37 (1975) to 50 (1988) of Mediaeval Studies, which contained a full quarter of the articles published in the seventy-year history of the journal. The volume contains an In memoriam notice for Virginia Brown with a list of her publications, as well as nine articles, including texts in Latin and French, by contributors from Canada and five other countries.

Grants and Fundraising

We received a total of $109,000 in grants in the fiscal year 2008–2009, including $48,000 from the Aid to Scholarly Publications Program as well as $24,000 from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada for the journal. Grants received from all sources in 2009–2010 totaled $104,000.

Once again the Department extends its special thanks to James Carley for his generous work on behalf of publications. He is responsible for our fundraising initiative, which has generated sufficient subsidy for the publication of many books. He has also acted as the main architect of our acquisition strategy.

Revenues and Expenses

Publications revenue for the year 2008–2009 totaled $465,579. Expenses were $390,359, leaving a surplus of $75,220. In 2009–2010, publication revenue totaled $500,413. Expenses were $471,391, leaving a surplus of $29,022.

Highlights

The two years 2008–2010 covered by this report were marked by the launch of several new series and co-publication initiatives. New books were released in Catholic and Recusant Texts of the Late Medieval and Early Modern Periods (a series edited by T.S.

Freeman, Ann M. Hutchison, and Alison Shell), in Toronto Studies in Romance Philology (edited by Francis Gingras, Dorothea Kullmann, David Pattison, and Franco Pierno), as well as in Mediaeval Law and Theology (edited by Joseph Goering and Giulio Silano). Our collaboration with the Centre for Medieval and Renaissance Studies at Durham University, UK, was extended with the publication of the inaugural volume of Durham Medieval and Renaissance Monographs and Essays.

The Institute had a banner year at Kalamazoo in May 2009, with total sales reaching $4100 (US), and in 2010 we even exceeded that total. We wish to record our debt to the Librarian, James K. Farge, CSB, for his generous and unstinting labours on our behalf at Kalamazoo for many years. PIMS Publications also co-sponsored a very successful reception at Kalamazoo with the Centre for Medieval and Renaissance Studies, Durham University.

The department continues to profit immeasurably from the Publishing Program at Ryerson University, Toronto. The program brought us Megan Jones as an intern; she has proved herself a skilled and meticulous editor, and this year joined us as a part-time assistant. Our second intern from the program, Trevor MacKay, served as an excellent production editor. We were extremely fortunate to have as intern in 2009 Nate Dorward, also from the Ryerson program. An accomplished editor and typesetter, he also proved a brilliant designer. Paul Crisostomo and Andrew Anastasovski also worked long and hard over several books in 2009 and 2010.

Staffing

Over the period covered by the report, the department was staffed by Jean Hoff and Fred Unwalla, editors, Jonathan Black, editor of Mediaeval Studies, and Angela MacAloney, administrative assistant.

The Institute Website

From January to December over each of the two years covered by this report, the Institute website received over 800,000 hits; the number of unique visitors to the site during the same period averaged between 40,000 and 45,000: both represent an increase of 25% over 2006–2007. The site typically undergoes extensive updating to its contents in the spring and the autumn, most of these, predictably, limited to the modules devoted to Academics, the Library, and Publications. Both the new initiatives in the development of book series and the new, accelerated publication programme received prominence over the past two years. Back-end technical improvements, principally surrounding security and accessibility, have continued. For help in matters editorial and technical, I should like to thank once again my colleagues Jonathan Black and Jean Hoff, our editorial assistant Megan Jones, and our intern Trevor MacKay from the Publishing Program at Ryerson University, Toronto; for resourceful and patient responses to numerous questions, I owe special thanks to Ben Walton at CHASS (Computing in the Humanities and Social Sciences Facility in the University of Toronto), which hosts the Institute website.

Sine Nomine

Ensemble for Medieval Music

Programme for 2008–2009 season

- 19 December 2008: "Soone must I syng with rejoycyng: Medieval music and readings for Advent and Christmas." A concert that turned the tables on the popular December phenomenon of "Nine Lessons and Carols," by returning to its medieval sources.
- 20 February 2009: "Fixed forever in its motion: Medieval musical reflections on time and eternity." Music and texts on the unfolding of earthly and heavenly time, and their relationship to never-ending perfection, subjects of fascination to medieval cosmologists.
- 1 May 2009: "The wounde of wilfulle longyng: Music for the medieval English mystics." A programme of music representative of the remarkable milieu of Julian of Norwich, Margery Kempe, Richard Rolle, Walter Hilton, and John of Forde.

Programme for 2009–2010 season

- 18 December 2009: "Missus est angelus Gabriel: Medieval music for the Annunciation and Nativity." A concert structured around the period of anticipation and preparation for the Feast of the Nativity, an arc as it were from expectation to Incarnation, in music and readings.
- 19 February 2010: "Vanitas et corruptio: Medieval songs of parody and satire." A musical and textual exploration of the many ways in which satire was artistically clothed, including the processes of parodic borrowing and imitation which so often poked fun at the originals that inspired them.
- 23 April 2010: "Fort outrageuse et desraisonable depense: Music for medieval feasts and occasions." An essay in sound built around the detailed descriptions of medieval music from late-medieval accounts of banquets, weddings, and coronations.

Sine Nomine also performed at some universities in the region in conjunction with their medieval music survey classes. Members from the group also took part in the memorial service held 22 October 2009 for Senior Fellow Professor Virginia Brown.

Benefactions and Bequests

The Institute welcomes gifts and bequests in furtherance of its objectives. Donations can be directed to the Institute itself, to the Mediaeval Studies Foundation, or to specific funds and named gifts. All such donations (including books, works of art or other artifacts appropriate to the pursuit of medieval studies) will qualify for Income Tax relief in Canada and in the United States.

The Institute's Library has benefited from its inception from gifts and bequests which have provided the foundation for some of its most important collections. Permanent endowment is sought also for academic positions and projects to which a donor's name can be attached. Named Chairs are being sought to support research and teaching in the central disciplines of medieval thought and culture, particularly in Philosophy, Theology, Liturgy, Canon Law, Art and Archaeology. Named funds may also be established for student scholarships, research grants and visiting professorships. Donors may wish to underwrite an ongoing series of publications, individual publications, or the Institute journal, Mediaeval Studies. There are opportunities as well for named or memorial areas in the Institute, including its seminar rooms, areas within the Library, and the Library itself.

Mediaeval Studies Foundation

The Mediaeval Studies Foundation holds in trust the endowment funds of the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies. It exists only to support the work of the Institute and manages trusts and restricted funds directed to specific purposes, disbursing earnings for the operation of the Institute's scholarly programmes. To facilitate contributions from the United States of America, a complementary American Corporation has been established (for a further details, see below).

Special Funds

Among the special funds invested to support specific objectives are the following:

The Friends of the Library Fund

The long-term objective of the Friends of the Library Committee is to build up a fund whose earnings would support the purchase of manuscripts, books, periodicals, microfilms, CD-ROM materials, readers, and computer equipment.

The Carr Memorial Fund for Papal Registers

The Carr Memorial Collection holds films of medieval papal registers. The Fund allows us to continue acquisition of films and/or CD-ROMs of the registers from AD 872 to 1464 including, eventually, the registers of the Avignon popes.

The Michael M. Sheehan Memorial Fund

Created in memory of Father Michael M. Sheehan, the earnings of this fund are used to provide scholarship awards in medieval history or law.

The Edward A. Synan Memorial Fund

The earnings from this fund, created by colleagues, former students, and friends of the late Msgr. Edward A. Synan, support studies or research in medieval philosophy.

American Pontifical Institute for Mediaeval Studies Corporation

As noted above, The American Pontifical Institute for Mediaeval Studies Corporation (#1705 308 4016 038) has been established to facilitate contributions by persons and organizations in the United States. Gifts qualify for charitable exemptions as provided by the United States Internal Revenue Service.

Anyone considering a gift or bequest to support the Institute's work is asked to contact Dr Richard M. Alway, Praeses, 59 Queen's Park Crescent East, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, M5S 2C4. Telephone: (416) 926-7142.
