This book investigates scholastic discussions of Christ’s wills from Anselm of Canterbury to John Duns Scotus, concentrating on Thomas Aquinas. The work advances understandings of scholastic Christology in two basic ways. First, it traces the development of scholastic discussions of Christ’s wills, attending to the contested issues, to the context of debates, to the use of sources and distinctions, and to the larger implications of these discussions for scholastic Christology. Second, the book utilizes this general analysis as a backdrop for examining the role granted to Christ’s humanity by Thomas Aquinas. It argues that Aquinas, based upon his highly developed understanding of Christ’s wills, his novel use of patristic sources, and his own terminological and conceptual advancements, portrays Christ’s humanity as an instrumentum divinitatis that, through its free will and operation, acts as the instrumental efficient cause of salvation. In presenting Christ’s human will as an instrumental efficient cause of salvation, Thomas developed and extended Anselm’s basic soteriological insight by highlighting the Incarnation and Passion as the most fitting means for redemption precisely in their elevation of human dignity in intellect and will. Serious challenges, both medieval and modern, have been directed against Aquinas’s Christological formulations. In responding to these challenges, the book demonstrates the enduring value of Aquinas’s Christology.
MEDIAEVAL LAW AND THEOLOGY 5

General Editors

Alexander Andrée
University of Toronto

John F. Boyle
University of St Thomas

Joseph Goering
University of Toronto

Giulio Silano
University of Toronto
Preface
Acknowledgements

This book has been published with the help of grants from Biola University’s Torrey Honors Institute, School of Arts and Sciences and Institute for Spiritual Formation.

Library and Archives Canada Cataloguing in Publication

Barnes, Corey Ladd

Christ’s two wills in scholastic thought: the Christology of Aquinas and its historical contexts / Corey L. Barnes.

(Studies and texts ; 178)
(Mediaeval law and theology ; 5)
Includes bibliographical references and index.

1. Jesus Christ — Person and offices.  2. Jesus Christ — History of doctrines — Middle Ages, 600–1500.  3. Jesus Christ — Natures.  4. Thomas, Aquinas, Saint, 1225?–1274.  I. Title.  II. Series: Studies and texts (Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies) ; 178  III. Series: Mediaeval law and theology ; 5

© 2012
Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies
59 Queen’s Park Crescent East
Toronto, Ontario, Canada M5S 2C4
www.pims.ca

MANUFACTURED IN CANADA
Contents

Acknowledgements vii

CHAPTER ONE
History and Theological Significance of Christ’s Two Wills 1
Patristic Reflection on Christ’s Wills | 6
Aims of the Present Study | 19

CHAPTER TWO
Foundations of Thirteenth-Century Debates
The Sentences, Summa aurea, and Summa fratris Alexandri 26
Anselm of Canterbury, Peter Abelard, Hugh of St Victor, and the Summa sententiarum | 27
Peter Lombard’s Sentences | 37
William of Auxerre’s Summa aurea | 47
Summa fratris Alexandri | 56

CHAPTER THREE
Scholastic Debates on Christ’s Two Wills
Albert the Great and Bonaventure 69
Albert the Great | 71
Bonaventure | 89

CHAPTER FOUR
Thomas Aquinas on Christ’s Two Wills
Continuities and Developments between the Scriptum and Summa theologiae 113
Establishing a Human Will in Christ | 117
The Will of Sensuality | 132
Contents

The Twofold Act of the Will of Reason | 135
Perfect Knowledge, Perfect Free Choice | 139
A Human Will Obedient to God | 144
The Acts of Christ’s Will | 158

CHAPTER FIVE
Fitting Means for Redemption
Christ’s Human Nature as Instrumental Efficient Cause of Salvation 180

The Plan of the Summa theologiae | 183
The Incarnation as Fitting Communication of Goodness Itself | 193
The Mode of Union | 199
The Nature Assumed | 204
Christ the Mediator: Christ’s Human Will as Cause of
Salvation | 224

CHAPTER SIX
Later Treatments of Christ’s Wills and Problems of Christological
Causation
Giles of Rome, Peter Olivi, and John Duns Scotus 291

Giles of Rome, Peter Olivi, and Christology after 1277 | 292
John Duns Scotus on Christ’s Wills | 300
Sorrow, Sadness, and Freedom | 306
Finite Causality, Finite Merit | 313

Conclusion 329

Bibliography 333

Index 352
Acknowledgements

Without the generous assistance of many people, this project never would have come to fruition. My teachers and mentors at the University of Notre Dame tirelessly provided encouragement, advice, and a scholarly example. Through a variety of formal and informal means, John Cavadini, Brian Daley, Cyril O’Regan, Thomas Prügl, and Joseph Wawrykow were trustworthy guides and inspirations. My good friends Caleb Congrove and Shawn Colberg assisted me at crucial stages of the process. My colleagues in the Department of Religion at Oberlin College also have offered me consistent support, for which I am most grateful. Finally and most importantly, I owe many thanks to my wife, Doris Jankovits, for her patience, friendship, and optimism.

Oberlin, Ohio